

Abstract

A system and method for assisting a pilot to recover the aircraft from a variety of dangerous situations involving one or more of the following: altitude, airspeed, attitude, roll rate, and a partial equipment failure in the control panel. In accordance with the 5 invention, these factors are sensed automatically, and voice instructions are provided to the pilot to direct him or her to get the aircraft out of the dangerous situation sensed by this system.